“Grandma to me was style and grace. The kind of beauty that is timeless. The kind of person u might be so lucky to meet once in a lifetime. She taught me so much about life, and love and forgiveness. How to say ur prayers at night and not to forget those that r sick and might be going thru struggles in their life. How to “put ur troubles in God’s hands” and to thank him for everything he has done for u. She didn’t have to be my grandmother she choose to be and treated me as her own and I loved her very much. Because of her I’m a better person am honored to have called her my grandma and pray that someday I’m half the woman she was.
