“ So very sorry for your loss. I knew Lou from way back, we rode together to work with Marylou Carson and he was always such a gentleman. I can remember him and his faithful companion Lucky, oh what a pair. Well he is now in a better place reunited with family members and pets. I'm sure he is some parade in heaven with Lucky wearing sun glasses. Someday you will all be together again but until then he will be keeping an watchful eye on his loved ones he left behind. Lou, Rest In Peace

“ Memories live on for ever. Uncle Lewy was a big man with with strong hands. He made that known every time he greeted me and we shook hands. He was also a gentle giant. After he nearly crushed my hand, he would give me a gentle bear hug. He was very humble and was very accepting of everyone. He will be forever loved and forever missed. Go rest high on that mountain my friend, your work here is done.
