July 10, 1943 - January 20, 2021

Ronald Alvin Dusenberry, 77, of Dilliner (Taylortown), Pa., passed away peacefully Wednesday, January 20, 2021, at his home after a tough fought battle with cancer. Born at Morgantown, W.Va. on July 10, 1943, he was a son of the late Lee and Elizabeth (Stoneking) Dusenberry.

A 1961 graduate of Mapletown High School, Ron married the love of his life Jean Bellis on August 26, 1961.

He was a production manager at Sterling Faucet in Morgantown, an electrician in the coal mines, and the proud business owner of Duseyland Day Care, also in Morgantown. He loved helping people, and continued to work after his retirement as a school bus driver for Greene County Transportation.

Ron's passions in life were his family, golf, farming, and the Mountaineers. He was a member of the Morgantown Church of Christ.

Surviving is his wife of 59 years, Jean; five children and their spouses, Terri (Mike) Kelley and Karen (Bill) Marshall, both of Bobtown, Tim (Cassy) Dusenberry, Rhonda (Ken) Reynolds and Christina (Kevin) Halbert, all of Dilliner; 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Also surviving are many loving cousins.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his brother, Donald Dusenberry.

“ He left a legacy of love, not only for his family, but for many, many children. I remember him expressing how he enjoyed “hanging out” with baby Samuel, drinking his coffee, and watching the news. They were morning buddies.
